$450,751 Cut from Sundry Claims and Deficiency Bills Promises New Fight

SENATE WANTS VETO COPY

GOVERNOR BARS SCHOOL FUNDS

BECAUSE OF OBLIGATIONS BETWEEN STATE AND COUNTIES

By The Associated Press
COLUMBUS, O., July 7.—As was expected, Gov. Martin L. Davey vetoed the $450,751 sundry claims and deficiency appropriation bill sharply and the question of another legislative fight over the $450,751 cut lay today in a senate request for a certified copy of the veto.

A few hours after Davey vetoed the sundry claims bill, the senate passed a resolution requiring the governor to forward copies of his vetoes back to the legislature for reconsideration. The senate in a recent resolution declared he had not done this with previous vetoes and asked him to do so.

Davey said he disapproved the special school appropriation because of undetermined obligations existing between the state and the respective counties being benefited by these appropriations.

A table of other cuts follows:

Item	Amount	Vetoed
Sundry Claims	$60,817	$29,401
Ohio State U.	$101,206	$14,152
Miami U.	$23,656	$11,586
Ohio Soldiers & Sailors' Orphans' Home	$8,892	$1,714
Welfare Dept.	$204,086	$146,233

Among the cities and amounts affected by the $450,751 veto for special schooling for blind deaf and crippled children the following are included:

City	Amount
Akron	$2,524
Cincinnati	$61,520
Cleveland	$56,537
Columbus	$17,810
Dayton	$1,166
Lorain	$1,057
Newark	$1,463
Marion	$1,261
Toledo	$32,061
Youngstown	$3,590

Class To Continue Here Despite Veto

Governor Davey's veto will add $1,261 to the Marion city school district's cost of operating crippled children's classes. Supt. C. A. Hudson said today.

That amount was cut out in the veto and was to have partly reimbursed the city schools for payments made in operating the special classes in 1932-33 and 1933-34. Partial payments had been made by the state leaving the $1,261 figure yet due.

Mr. Hudson explained that the state pays for extra costs involved in the special schools such as transportation, lunches, nursing services and similar expenses while the local school districts are to pay for the normal cost.

The veto will not mean suspension of the classes Mr. Hudson said but will create an added burden since the schools were set up with the understanding the state would share the costs.

Settlement for crippled children's classes in the last school year will not be due Supt. Hudson pointed out until an itemized report of expenses is sent in. This report, he said, is now being prepared.

Farm Group in Midwest Asks Roosevelt and Wallace To End Restrictions

POINT TO RISING PRICES

Claim Conditions in West Ravaged Areas Are Worst in History

By The Associated Press
CHICAGO, July 7.—A plea for the lifting of crop restrictions in drouth ravaged states came out of the heat harried farm belt today.

A wave of record shattering petitions engulfed middle America for the fifth consecutive day as the Farmers' National Holiday association appealed to President Roosevelt and Secretary of Agriculture Wallace to abandon production curtailment measures.

A searing sun raised the silver mercury far beyond the century mark in many official thermometers yesterday. Simultaneously the red line of crop losses advanced toward the $300,000,000 level. Commodity prices hurtled upward pessimism mounted.

The weather bureau could foresee no rain to ease the most trying and damaging period of the drouth. Instead it issued the worst possible news. No relief.

At Washington the AAA announced modification of the soil conservation program to encourage the widest possible conservation of forage in affected arid areas.

Driven by the fifth consecutive day of record shattering temperatures, grains and commodities soared to new seasonal high then gains receded.

Crop losses advanced toward the $300,000,000 level and pessimism mounted.

Since the drouth first became serious three weeks ago wheat prices now 2 to 3 cents higher than the 1935 peak level have advanced about 23 cents a bushel as conditions have become critical.

Corn Gains 18 Cents

Corn has gained 18 cents oats more than 10 cents and butter futures almost 6 cents a pound. The latter are the highest since January 1930. Potatoes also have advanced sharply.

Resuming its drouth inspired climb with the opening of the market July wheat quickly sold here today about $1.10 a bushel the highest level since August 1934 and within a fraction of the five cents maximum gain permissible. Near the close however it broke 5 1/2 cents.

At Minneapolis wheat bounced the full price at once September selling there as high as $1.24, cents a bushel.

BATTLE TO SAVE SOIL DESCRIBED

Widespread drouth focuses America's attention on the soil. Projects for holding, precious water on the land are being put forward nationwide. The attack on soil erosion America's battle to save her soil is a thrilling one. Read of it in Illustrated Science starting today on Page 2.

City touched the 4 cents limit permissible in that market on the opening going reaching 80 1/2 then receding.

These temperatures—some of them all time highs—were registered yesterday.

St. Paul Minn. and Springfield Ill. 104.

Ducks collapsed from the heat in North Dakota. Eggs were scrambled on the sidewalk at Mattoon. Several hundred men fought forest fires in South Dakota's Black Hills. Pavements buckled in Illinois.

John Bosch head of the Farmers' National Holiday association telegraphed President Roosevelt and Secretary Wallace a plea to end crop restriction last night. He said the situation in west, north, middle and the Dakotas was the worst in history and "spreading rapidly."

His message set forth:

The nation's welfare is seriously jeopardized. Grain prices are sky rocketing. Producers and consumers must pay the bill. Crop reduction should be abandoned.

Many of the dramatic effects accompanying the natural calamity took place in five cents yesterday. Wheat whizzed up the markets. Rye, corn, oats, three and rye, five. Traders, who measured their fear of widespread crop failure in money, asserted wheat would have advanced a dime if it had not encountered the limits imposed by the government. They pointed out the restrictions on a day's fluctuations had been imposed, ironically enough, to protect farmers against sharp price drops.

County Board Starts Checkup To Determine Effectiveness of Remonstrances

WORKERS TO MAKE COUNT

Program To Consolidate Districts at Stake Decision Due June 30

The county board of education today began a poll of rural school districts affected by the board's redistricting program to determine whether remonstrance petitions recently circulated in the districts contain the signatures of 51 per cent of the electors.

The poll is to be completed by July 23 the date of the next meeting of the board. If the petitions are found to have been signed by a majority of the electors the remonstrances would automatically nullify the board's action and its consolidation program would be shelved.

D. T. Mills who announced last morning the poll is under way said he had been authorized by the board some time ago to canvass the districts. Several workers were placed in the field this morning. This force which Mr. Mills said is expected to be increased to between 12 and 15 within a few days.

An attorney for the board of education said the only way the board can be fair to both sides in the controversy over the consolidation is to count noses to determine where the petitions contain a sufficient number of signatures to nullify the program.

Seven remonstrances each bearing signatures totaling in number from 99 to 97 were filed with the board June 26 by residents of the rural school districts. Each of the remonstrances protested against one of the seven consolidations voted by the board in a program which board members assert is in line with the policy of the state department of education to bring enrollment in rural schools up to 180 in both elementary and high school buildings.

Pair of Two-Run Spurts in Second and Fifth Clinch Victory in Classic

By The Associated Press
BOSTON, July 7.—The National league emerged with its first victory in four All Star games with the American league today, winning 4 to 3 before the smallest crowd that has yet witnessed the annual classic.

A pair of two run spurts in the first off Bob Grove in the second inning and the next with School boy Rowe pit him in the fifth gave the Nationals a margin that they were hard pressed to protect in the last three frames.

Lou Gehrig's heroic run in the seventh touched off a three run rally by the Americans that knocked Curt Davis' club right handed from the box but Lou Warneke stepped in to stop the fireworks.

There were big vacant patches in all the uncovered outfield stands despite perfect weather. Not even the reserved section was filled despite announcements of a sell out.

The gate, expected unlikely to exceed $25,000, it was by far the smallest turnout for any of the four all star games.

Manager Grimm and Shortstop Leo Durocher of the Nationals, with Joe Cronin and Arthur Fletcher on behalf of the rival squads engaged in a long conference at the plate with the umpire Commissioner K. M. Landis, cupping a box behind the American dugout gave last minute directions as he posed for the cameras.

The batting order:

Americans
Appling Chicago 2b
Gehrig New York 1b
Holt New York 3b
Averill Cleveland cf
R. Ferrell Boston c

Durocher St. Louis ss

The play by play follows:

FIRST INNING

Americans—Dean fired the first two pitches past Appling for strikes, three and two before the White Sox shortstop finally whiffed. Gehrig fouled off two pitches and then popped it. Dean hit the crowd gave Joe Magglio a big hand as the Yankee broke through to the plate but he hit into a double play on the first pitch. Whitely to Herman to Collins.

No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

SECOND INNING

Americans—Lou Gehrig walked on four straight balls. With the count one and one Averill lifted a high one that Durocher caught in short left. Dean displayed a lot of stuff as he fanned Rick Ferrell on a foul and two called strikes. Dizzy then caught Gehrig napping off first and the Yankee captain was tagged out by Collins.

No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

THIRD INNING

Americans—Dean fired the first two pitches past Appling for strikes, three and two before the White Sox shortstop finally whiffed. Gehrig fouled off two pitches and then popped it. FOURTH INNING

Americans—Curt Humber south paw ace of the Giants and a pitching star of the 1931 all star game went to the box for the Nationals. Demaree made a great running catch off Appling's short foul near the stands. Gehrig smacked a single to right for the Americans. First hit. He was some home from the dandy as Joe Magglio came off the plate. Bookie Joe popped to Durocher after driving a long foul against the left field bleachers. Gehrig went to second on a passed ball. Collins made a great snafu of Gehrig's hot ground smash. Juggled the ball but recovered in time to toss to Humber for the putout.

FIFTH INNING

Americans—Averill popped to Herman. Rick Ferrell failed to make Humber's screwball and struck out. Gehrig fouled off a ball. Dean hit the crowd gave Joe Magglio a big hand as the Yankee broke through to the plate but he hit into a double play on the first pitch. Whitely to Herman to Collins.

SIXTH INNING

Americans—With the game at the halfway point the American league bank was substituted. Summers went to the box. He showed off his first pitch to right but Joe Magglio was under it for an easy out. With the count three and two Collins walked on a fast ball that was away outside. Medwick poked a long fly that Averill caught in deep center.

No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

Wants Legislature Given Right To Enact Law Which It Deems Best Suited

By The Associated Press
TOLEDO, Ohio, July 7.—Differing opinions between the new deals social security program and the Republican platform Gov. Alf M. Landon recommended today that Kansas prepare in July an security system as may ultimately be into the settled law upon this question.

His views were given a joint senate-house meeting of the special session of the state legislature which assembled at his call in consideration of constitutional changes designed to make the greater participation in major phases of the federal social security law.

He urged submission by the legislature and approval by the Kansas electorate in November of a constitutional amendment or amendments which will enable the legislature to pass laws providing for the necessary social security such a constitutional change the governor said should be merely a grant of power leaving methods of administration to the wisdom and sound judgment of the legislature.

Referring to the Stand

Then the Republican candidate for nomination made his single reference to the national political contest.

In considering proposed amendments Landon told the legislature "I desire to call attention to the fact that the platform of the Republican party adopted at its national convention provides for a plan of social security different from the social security act adopted by congress."

"I do not deem this a fitting time to enter into a discussion of the relative merits of the present act and the proposed act out in the Republican platform. Any proposed amendment to the constitution should merely grant to the legislature of the state the power to enact laws to enable this state to join in any such final act for this purpose as may ultimately become the settled law upon this question."

The Republican platform proposed a pay as you go old age security system that citizens over 65 should receive the supplementary payment necessary to provide a minimum income sufficient to protect from want federal contributions to states with the necessary revenue raised through a direct tax widely distributed. It further proposed to use a portion by states of federal and practical methods for meeting the problems of unemployment insurance.

Agree on Amendments

Legislative leaders in busy night conferences were virtually agreed upon two amendments exact wording of which was left to last minute meetings of the senate and house judiciary committees.

In general the amendments would empower the state to provide a uniform system and appropriate money for caring for the aged infirm and unfortunate a function Republican leaders said now was reserved to counties. The second would empower the state to tax employers and employees for old age benefit and unemployment compensation funds.

For Landon legislative business and delivery of his message provided only a portion of the day's chores. His work schedule included national campaign conferences.

June Delivers Welcome Rain in Marion County

As if desperate to make a good name for itself, June showered rain on parched fields and lawns to the extent of more than an inch and one-half of rainfall in two out of the last three days of the month, according to weather statistics tabulated by Dr. E. H. Raffensperger, local government observer. The highly-valued rain, estimated to have meant thousands of dollars to Marion county farmers, some of whose fields were beginning to turn brown, came in almost equal division; .85 of an inch falling on June 28 and .83 of an inch on June 30.

The last previous rainfall was recorded on June 18, when only .10 of an inch fell. Rainfall for the month, however, totaled 7.61 inches, under the average for June, which is 4.01 inches.

The average June temperature was slightly exceeded this year, with last month's average being 70.85 degrees, compared to the average for previous years of 69.12 degrees.

The month's highest temperature, 82 degrees, was recorded on June 17, while marks of 62 were recorded on June 28 and 27. Low for the month was 34.

Scientists Center Efforts on Campaign Against Dust Storms and Floods—"Enemies of The Earth"

This is the first in a series of articles describing the relationship between dust storms and floods, their origin, the extent of their devastation and the way being waged against them. They are written by an Associated Press reporter sent into the "dust country" to get a first hand account.

By CHARLES NEWMAN
Associated Press Staff Writer
DUST storms and floods have been with mankind since the dawn of time. They are the two most powerful forces that have shaped the earth.

That they have risen together is not a coincidence to the scientist, who sees them as twin, public enemies, springing to life from the same cause.

Dust is a natural product of the earth, but it is not a disaster until it is blown into a dust storm, which bespeaks an overabundance of water.

Not all the blame is Nature's. Dust storms come because the earth is dry, the soil is loose, and the wind blows. Men may blame nature for the wind and for lack of rain. He cannot blame nature because the soil is not anchored.

Floods come because of the hard seasonal downpours, because the big rivers are overfed by the little rivers, because the channels are not deep enough to carry the big rivers at flood tide.

Man cannot stop the rain. He may make the river channels deeper, by dredging, by building levees. That is done by American engineers. But even when that method works, it averts only the most obvious loss.

It does not keep fertile topsoil from being washed off the land. It does not hold the water where it will nourish vegetation, make the land flourish.

Proper cultivation of the soil, floods, say the scientists, are partly attributable to the absence of sufficient vegetation at the headwaters; along the small rivers that feed the big rivers; along the creeks that feed the little rivers; on the sloping earth from which the needed water runs unchecked into the creeks.

Proper cultivation of farm lands, reestablishment and protection of forests and vegetation on wild lands, say the soil conservationists, would hold the water, help prevent floods, save and enrich the soil.

Proper cultivation and reestablishment of forests and vegetation on wild lands, say the soil conservationists, would hold the water, help prevent floods, save and enrich the soil.

"Erosion" is a term much used today. It means "to eat or wear away." Two kinds of erosion eat and wear away the soil: wind erosion, resulting in dust storms; water erosion, contributing to floods.

Huge Loss from Erosion

No large area in the country escapes erosion. What is being advocated and practiced to preserve the soil in dust and flood areas is applicable to all areas, say the conservationists.

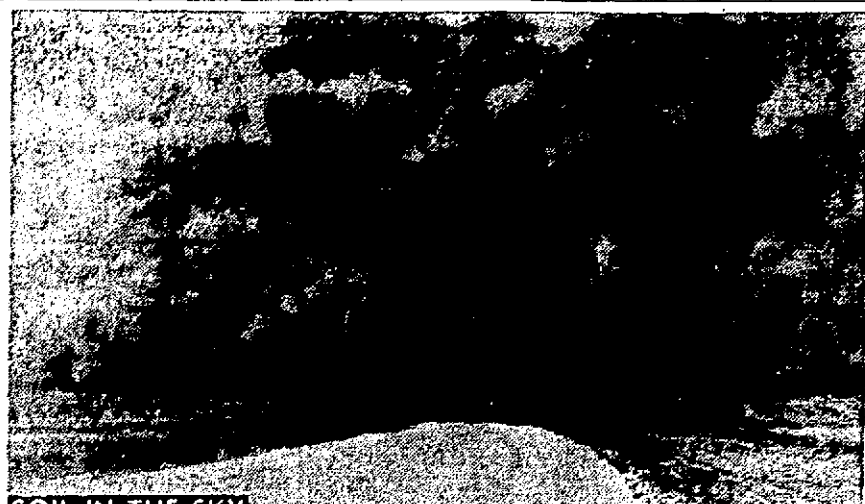

The uplands of interior China were once rich with farms and forests. Today they are blank stretches of sand and stone. Overgrazing, overcultivation, destroyed the soil.

Erosion is a problem as old as agriculture; the hard lesson of overgrazing is in the Old Testament. The soil conservation service of the department of agriculture reports that in America—

50,000,000 acres have been permanently ruined by erosion.

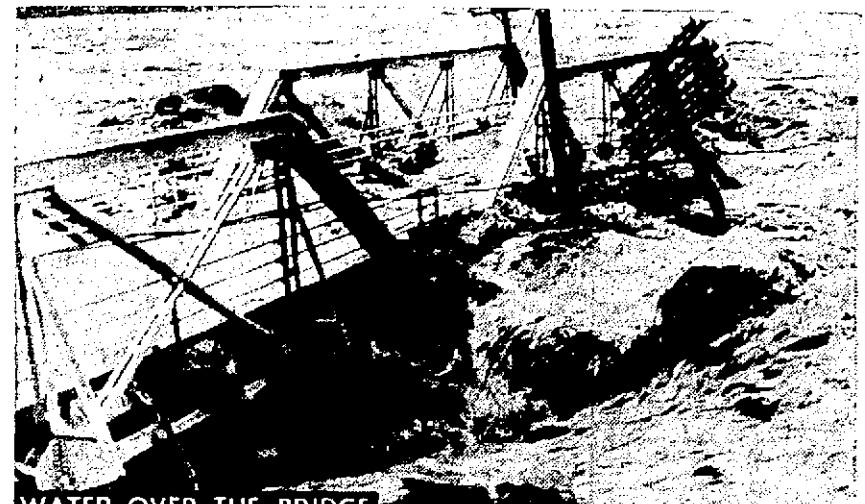

50,000,000 acres seriously damaged.

100,000,000 acres impaired.

SOIL IN THE SKY

"Dust storms come because the earth is dry, the soil is loose and the wind blows." Stop wind erosion, say scientists, and you prevent dust storms.

WATER OVER THE BRIDGE

"Floods come because of the hard seasonal downpours, because the big rivers are overfed by the little rivers, because the channels are not deep enough to carry the big rivers at flood tide." Stop water erosion, say scientists, and you help prevent floods.

Death, injury to health, homelessness—for these there are no adequate estimates.

A black and white photograph of a small, single-story house with a gabled roof, surrounded by dense trees and foliage. The house appears to be in a rural or wooded setting.

The 550-acre Tipton, Ia., farm which belonged to the three Tivers brothers and all the barns are being searched by treasure hunters after $234,500 had been discovered in the house (above) and one of the barns, by Mr. and Mrs. Louis Voss, cousins of the brothers, who inherited the farm after the death of the last brother recently. Believing that much more money may have been hidden on the farm by the bachelor brothers, other relatives have joined in the hunt. It is rumored that the relatives may start soon to break the will of the last brother who left the Tipton farm to Voss and his wife.

Your Health

BY DR. E. S. COPELAND

Skin Ailments.

This is the time of the year when the doctor has to deal with many disturbances of the skin. "Dermatitis," inflammation of the skin, is a common summer ailment. In warm weather the skin is subject to many irritations and inflammations that are less common during the cold weather. During the summer months many of us are eager to acquire that admired coat of tan. But, unfortunately, some are overzealous in their attempts and often become victims of severe sunburn.

This danger is especially great for the fair, the blonde person. It should be especially guarded against if you have a sensitive skin. To avoid this danger, as I told you several days ago, always bear in mind that exposure to the sun should be gradual. It is safe to stay out in the sun for long periods of time only after the skin has attained its protective coat of tan.

For several years the lay public has been warned of the dangers of ringworm during the summer months. Large numbers of persons congregate on public beaches and visit swimming pools, and some of them contract this annoying affliction of the skin. It affects the feet, and is commonly spoken of as "athlete's foot."

Washington and in the states. But this is entirely apart from the problem of how to keep the politicians from shifting the burden so as to make it larger from year to year on the employers and less and less on the employees so that conceivably the economic system might be burdened with a tax that could curtail consumption of goods and bring unemployment and a diminished national income.

The question of how to invest safely a fund taken annually from 30,000,000 workers and 4,000,000 employers and get 3 per cent is not easy to figure out. It is essential for the working of the plan that 3 per cent be earned. The federal government is not able to issue securities for these big amounts unless it proposes to keep on going in debt by means of public work projects.

The experts disagree on the answer to all this for there is no immediately clear solution of the tangled problem. Both parties, however, tried to show their hearts were in the right place and the new deal plan now on the statute books will more assuredly require revision if not repeal of unworkable sections.

The Stars Say--

For Wednesday, July 3

A PARTICULARLY lively, enterprising and progressive day is forecast from the predominant lunar and mutual aspects. It is a time of high pressure and initiative in which it may be well to launch new and important projects with energy and decisiveness, and with the support of those in power and influence assured. Hasty news may be involved and there may be journeys or changes necessary to promote brave adventures. Trifles may affect private affiliations.

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a particularly lively and enterprising year with much progress and prosperity assured. This is true especially in the launching of new and bold projects in which the support and good will of those in place and power are desirable. Sudden news may instigate change or travel, possibly with disturbing reactions.

A child born on this day may have lively, energetic, capable and constructive qualities which may be expressed manually or mentally. In either direction he may attain prominence. Notable nativity: John D. Rockefeller, capitalist.

OFFICERS ELECTED BY CHURCH BOARD

The board of Calvary Evangelical church was reorganized at a meeting held last night at the church. Paul Zachman was elected president of the board of stewards and Mrs. George Orans was elected recording steward. H. W. Zachman was chosen president of the church board, with H. J. Klinefelter as vice president, George Bentley as secretary, and George Orans as treasurer. The executive officials will appoint the church committees in a short time. The next board meeting will be held on Aug. 3.

So much coffee is raised near Canton, Brazil, and shipped from that seaport that at the height of the season the odor of green coffee is distinguishable 100 miles at sea.

MURDER TONIGHT

BY LAURENCE W. MEYNELL

over to that door behind you and poke your head into the billiard room, will you?"

White did as he was bid. "No body there, sir," he said a trifle surprised.

"Good. People who play billiards sometimes have long ears. Go ahead."

"It's this sir," The sergeant produced a small square of yellow cardboard from his pocket and put it carefully on the table. "Edward found it. He's our man on the back door at the Court. He was going off duty the other day and took a short cut across the bit of grass in front of the window—"

"The window of the room where it happened?"

"Yes sir. A few yards away from the window he saw this and picked it up."

Hilton very gingerly took up the exhibit and studied it. The cardboard had been folded in half down the middle and had lost something of its pristine freshness, but all the printing on it was still perfectly legible.

Luxor Hairdressing Salon Specialists in Ladies' Coiffures. Setting & Waving a Specialty. Time 2:30 Monday, Jan. 16th. Telephone Morechester 61.

Please bring this card with you. "2:30 Monday, Jan. 16th," he said reflectively. "Go to the telephone just outside, sergeant, ring up Morechester 61 and ask who it was who booked an appointment for 2:30 last Monday."

"Right-o, sir."

Hilton drew out one of his thin black cigars and lit it carefully. A woman in the case? He wondered. "Did you get them?"

"Yes sir, they were quite forthcoming about it, told me straight out."

"And who was it?"

"Mrs. Reeves of Ferny House."

The Inspector took the cigar out of his mouth and gave a long, low whistle.

"Mrs. Reeves, eh?" he said. "Wife of Captain Reeves—there seems to be a devil of a lot in this business we haven't begun to get hold of yet, White."

The Inspector left the Hoops quickly and was over at Enderton Court as fast as his long legs could take him; he had decided to have a few plain words with Andrew Lumsdale before going on to see Mrs. Reeves.

He found Lumsdale in the kitchen, sitting down to a generous high tea and reading the paper.

"Afternoon Lumsdale."

"How do?"

Lumsdale slowly masticated his last mouthful of food and eyed his visitor in silent and defensive speculation.

"Now let me see," the Inspector went on briskly. "Last Monday, when you went in by bus to Morechester you went straight from the bus to the cinema didn't you?"

"That's it."

"Without calling anywhere en route?"

"Ah went straight to 'pictures'."

Hilton leaned back and said quite pleasantly, "You may not like to be told so, Lumsdale, but you're a liar. You went straight from the bus to the Post Office, didn't you?"

The brooding blank eyes looked at him steadily, the lantern jaws moved steadily, but the man said nothing.

"You went to the Post Office, didn't you, Lumsdale?"

"Ah might have gone to get a few stamps, ah forgot."

"True you might have gone to get some stamps, and if that were all you might have forgotten about it. But it wasn't all, and you haven't forgotten. You went in to get something from the General Delivery where you are known by the name of Langley—that's so, isn't it?"

Lumsdale said nothing, but his steady stare was not quite so aggressively confident.

"And what's more, in the name of Langley, you have been in the habit of getting small packages every month or so for a goodish time, haven't you?"

"Well, suppose I have, what of it?"

Hilton leaned back and laughed softly. "You don't know as much as you think you do, Lumsdale, that's the trouble with your type."

"Apparently you don't know that it's illegal to have a General Delivery address in the same town as your ordinary postal address."

"Ah'm no lawyer."

"If you were you wouldn't be such a damned fool, Lumsdale. You're in danger, and apparently you don't realize it. You stood to benefit very considerably by Arthur Burdett's death; you knew

Married Comrades

BY ADELE GARRISON

Madge Arranges to Inform Marion of Plans in Secret

RONALD's face was so transformed at my quiet suggestion that I could hardly believe his suddenly joyful eyes and expression could belong to the same boy who a second before had been the epitome of gloomy doubt.

"Do you mean," he demanded eagerly, "that you will write to Marion telling her she need not worry at all about me, that everything is all right, and that the Derby Day and senior dance dates are as again as if nothing had happened?"

"I will do better than that, Ronald. I will tell her that I am not leaving her worrying. As soon as I get a chance after leaving here, and when I know she is free to come to the telephone, I shall call her and let her know everything is all right."

"Are you sure there won't be somebody listening?" Ronald queried doubtfully. "You know what those school girls are—some of them—"

"I added, evidently with a sudden surge of loyalty to his sister and Marion:

"I can assure you that I shan't say a word that anyone can understand save Marion. I told him I shall also tell her that she may ask expect a letter from the post soon of course, we were talking in our last interview."

"Do you mean me?" Ronald asked, but I knew that he was not so bewildered as his question made him appear. He simply was looking at a loss for words.

"Who else, Ronald?" I inquired. "If you'll wait it to me today, special delivery, it will reach me at the farm tomorrow. And if you'd trust me to change the envelope so it for one addressed in my hand writing to Marion."

"Trust you?" Ronald exclaimed eloquently.

"I showed him a smile for the comfort of his mind."

"I will put your letter in another envelope, put Marion's name on it in my handwriting and enclose it in a letter to Mrs. Barnes asking her to give the letter to Marion when nobody else is around. Some day I'll explain to Mrs. Barnes but for the present there is no need of offering any explanations to anybody."

Reassured, Ronald said: "I'll write my letter as soon as I get a chance, some time today. I'm to give it to her, you know."

"Yes, I know, and here he comes now," I said as I saw Picky and Samuel Brixton appear in the opened door. "And just in time too."

Then I added a hastily, low-toned request:

"Ronald, your stepfather was terribly anxious about you and your attitude toward him as we came up. It isn't a matter about which he can speak to you, but I wish you'd make an excuse to talk to my husband a minute or two, so that I can speak to your father alone, and reassure him."

"Oh! do tell him everything is all right with me—about that old matter—and everything," the boy said wholeheartedly.

"You don't need to worry about Ronald anymore," I told Brixton. "He's perfectly all right and will get through with the dates he has cancelled. I will let Marion know about those, and your wife and Carolyn need never suspect a thing. Will you be at your office tomorrow?"

"I can be," he replied. "Yes, of course, I will be. As a reminder of his promised financial rehabilitation came to him. 'Did you want to get me on the telephone?'"

"Yes," I said while the outlines of a plan that had just come to me took shape in my mind. "I can see no word to you today because you will be at home, and I assume that you do not wish me to telephone you there about this."

"Oh! no indeed," he said hastily. "I've guarded Helena from this sort of thing. I won't let her get an inkling of it now."

"She won't, through me," I promised. "But if you are at your office tomorrow, I think I can promise you definite news."

Maury Whitcum, Epworth Senior hurler, entered the ranks of the no-hit pitchers when he blanked the Lee Street team in a Sunday school league game at Garfield park last night. By virtue of the 7 to 0 victory over the Lee Streeters, the Seniors moved into the top division of the league for the first time this season. Whitcum was also supported last night when the Seniors clubbed out 10 hits and turned in a performance of errorless fielding.

Whitcum's upset of the Lee Street team was the second defeat suffered this season by the West Side club and it permitted the Forest Lawn team to annex undisturbed first place. Forest Lawn scored a 5 to 2 victory over Epworth No. 1 to add the seventh win in eight games. The Presbyterians won over the Trinity Baptist squad 6 to 4, to continue in third place. St. Mary forfeited to Reformed in the fourth game scheduled for last night.

The Epworth Seniors scored the initial run in the third inning when Ponks was safe on error and Marquise hit safely. With Whitcum fanning 15 of the Lee Street batters and preventing them from getting any safe singles, the single run would have been sufficient to win the game. The Seniors, however, put on a sixth inning drive which netted six runs on six hits and an error.

After trailing 2 to 0, the Forest Lawn club tallied five runs in the fifth inning to halt Epworth No. 1 by a 5 to 2 score. Thomas held the Forest Lawn hitters to one safe single until the final fifth frame when they picked him for five hits before he was relieved by Clarence McSwain. Sunday the winning hurler struck out 11 batters, issued four walks and permitted but four

Joe Discusses Comeback Plans

Joe, the sensational football dynamo, was in New York to plan his comeback at tonight's game. Joe and Schumling might be matched in the fourth game scheduled for last night.

With both teams short several players, the Presbyterians edged the Trinity Baptist 6 to 4. Trinity scored its four runs on eight hits and a single error, while the Presbyterians tallied six markers on seven singles and one error. The best hit of the contest was collected by Dean of the Baptist squad when he tripled in the second inning.
